Standards of conduct

Behaviour towards each other

We must all treat each other with trust, respect, honesty, fairness, sensitivity and dignity. Employees who supervise or manage other employees have a special responsibility to model this kind of behaviour, and to ensure that the people they supervise understand the standard of performance and behaviour that is expected of them.

You are expected to accommodate and respect different opinions and perspectives and manage disagreements by rational debate. You must not behave towards any other person in a way that could be perceived as intimidating, overbearing or as workplace harassment.

Effective teamwork is an essential part of a productive workplace culture. Each team member is expected to work co-operatively with fellow employees and willingly participate and engage in team activities (eg. meetings).

Non-discriminatory workplace

The Nhulunbuy Corporation is committed to creating and maintaining a workplace free from unlawful discrimination. By law, all employees must ensure that discrimination is not part of our workplace or our practices.

Workplace and sexual harassment

The Nhulunbuy Corporation is committed to preventing harassment of employees and the public.

Creating a work environment free of harassment is everyone's responsibility. As an employee you must take steps to prevent workplace harassment and sexual harassment, and address improper or inappropriate behaviours before they become severe, persistent or pervasive.

All employees are expected to contribute to building a workplace that tolerates differences and which is free from intimidation, bullying and harassment.

Please also refer to the Nhulunbuy Corporation's Harassment and Bullying Prevention Policy.

Conflict of interests

When making decisions, you must declare any conflicts of interest.

A conflict of interest involves a conflict between your official duties and responsibilities in serving the public interest and your private interests. A conflict of interest can arise from avoiding personal losses as well as gaining personal advantage – whether financial or otherwise. This includes advantages to relatives and friends.

If you believe you have a conflict of interest, whether real or perceived, you are required to tell your manager promptly who will review the matter, approve the next course of action and implement required controls. If you are unsure, you must discuss the matter with your team manager regardless. The CEO will then approve the conflict and proposed actions.

Until the matter is resolved, make sure you are not part of any decision-making processes related to the matter.

If you feel you have a conflict of interest between professional and corporate values, discuss it with your manager.

Influences on decision-making

You must not influence any person in an improper way to try to obtain any advantages or favours.

You must not deliberately mislead decision-makers by providing them with false, biased, incomplete, or inaccurate information.

All decisions you make must be, and be seen to be, fair and transparent. This can be achieved by:

- following the Nhulunbuy Corporation's procedures and processes
- keeping clear, accurate and complete records, and
- recording how and why decisions were made.

You must not in any way misrepresent your qualifications, experience or expertise in any recruitment and selection process.

Accepting gifts and benefits

You must not ask for a personal payment or other benefit for doing something as a Nhulunbuy Corporation employee.

Occasionally you could be offered gifts or benefits from people with whom you do business. You must not accept any gifts or benefits if there is a possibility that in doing so, you could create a real or perceived conflict of interest. You cannot accept cash or any item that is readily convertible to cash. Ask yourself if accepting the gift or benefit could suggest that the giver may or would receive favourable treatment.

Generally speaking, you can accept a gift or benefit if the following principles are applied:

- The gift or benefit is permitted by law
- The gift or benefit must not be knowingly given if it breaches the Nhulunbuy Corporation’s internal policies and standards
- Must be given/received in good faith without expecting any benefit in return
- There must be a legitimate business purpose
- Must be tasteful, decent and consistent with generally accepted standards for professional courtesy
- The nature, value and frequency of the gift or benefit given must be appropriate to the occasion and the position or role of the recipient
- The gift or benefit must be transparently given or received. There must be sufficient documentation and information to identify the giver/recipient, the nature, value and purpose/occasion relation to the benefit.

If you are offered a gift or benefit of any value, please refer to the following table for approval requirements:

Value	Approval
Less than $50	No approval required
$50-$100	Manager only
Greater than $100	Manager and CEO
