5. Feedback management process

The Nhulunbuy Corporation will manage feedback using the following steps:

Receiving the feedback

1. Feedback can be received from customers directly through the online Observation / Feedback form. This form is received via the office@ncl.net.au inbox and must be forwarded to the Information Officer (or their delegate) on the same day of receipt unless received after hours or on a weekend, in which case the feedback will be forwarded to the Information Officer the next working day.

The Information Officer is to ensure the complaint is uploaded to Sharepoint on the same day of receipt from office@ncl.net.au and allocated to the appropriate manager for actioning.

2. Alternatively, feedback can be received from a customer in person, in writing, by telephone, by email. In these instances, feedback must be forwarded to the Information Officer (or their delegate) on the same day of receipt unless received after hours or on a weekend, in which case the feedback will be uploaded to Sharepoint the next working day.

The Information Officer (or their delegate) will assign the feedback in the first instance to the appropriate Business Unit Manager to respond to the matter.

In the case of complaints against managers, these will be responded to by the CEO. In the case of complaints against the CEO, these will be responded to by the Chairperson of the Nhulunbuy Corporation Board of Directors.

The employee who receives the feedback must confirm with the customer that the customer's name and details will be retained for the purposes of managing the feedback unless the customer requests to remain anonymous.

The customer should also be:

- thanked for providing their feedback
- given a brief explanation of the feedback process, and
- advised that their feedback will be reviewed, and a response provided within five working days.

Acknowledging the feedback

3. If the matter cannot be resolved straight away, the actioning manager will acknowledge the feedback within 24 hours of it being uploaded into Sharepoint.

Responding to the feedback

4. It is the responsibility of the allocated manager to plan and undertake any required investigation or follow up. The steps taken to review the feedback should be listed under 'What action was taken' in the feedback record on Sharepoint.
5. The manager will provide a final response to the customer within five working days of receipt of the feedback and will be clear and informative. It is best practice to provide the response in the same form as the feedback was received (ie. in person, by telephone, by email etc.). In the case of feedback received through the online Observation/Feedback form, the response should be forwarded in the channel requested by the customer.

Details of the response should be listed under 'What action was taken' in the feedback record on Sharepoint.

If a document was sent to the customer or there is important documentation related to the investigation or follow up, attach the document to the Sharepoint record using the 'Attach file' tab at the top left of the screen.

If the manager is unable to provide a final response to the customer within five working days, the manager must contact the customer and advise them of the revised timeframe for a response.

Review

6. If the customer is not satisfied with the response, an internal review of the decision may be offered by the CEO and information about any external review options provided.
7. Any systemic issues that arise as a result of the feedback will be considered and acted on.

6. Unreasonable customer conduct

Should a complainant become aggressive and verbally abusive refuse to accept decisions relating to their complaints and as a consequence threaten violence, make unnecessary and excessive phone calls and emails, and excessive demands on time and the Nhulunbuy Corporation resources, they will be defined as being an 'unreasonable complainant'. This decision will be made by the CEO.

Please refer to the Nhulunbuy Corporation's Unreasonable Customer Conduct Procedure for more information.

7. Review of decisions

A customer who feels dissatisfied with the outcome of an investigation or follow up may seek to have the matter reviewed.
